ARE YOU ONE OF US!

It seems almost like throwing the money away to pay tailors $40.00 and $50.00 for what you can get of us for $25 or $35. They rail and rant against ready made clothes—but it's the pricking of the consciousness of excellence. We've gone in to win the trade of a class of gentlemen who are particular—but who are ready to give merit its dues. Have a look at our line of fine SUITS and OVERCOATS. If you've looked the best tailor's stock over you have seen the same grade of goods—with a third more at least, "tacked on" to the cost. The cheap tailors and the rest of the ready made clothiers haven't a suggestion of them even. Our's are in all the genteel effects. Effects that you don't find outside of a dozen mills if you look the world over for them. We put these fine fabrics right into OUR OWN TAILOR SHOPS and when they come out there's nothing choicer to be had. We are willing to stake our reputation on the perfection of the fit, the elegance and thoroughness of the finish and make. Try them on; It won't cost anything but time; and we are sure you'll give us the endorsement we deserve. We never go "off half cocked." When we make a claim we plant it in rich soil of facts, and it don't take long for it to bring forth fruit. Our efforts are telling on our trade. It's growing amazingly.

Such is our Success!

Respectfully Yours,

DUEL TO THE DEATH.
Shotguns and Pistols Used by Three Men in a Florida Town.

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 4.—From Perry, the county seat of Taylor county, comes a report of a street fight in the public square there, in which Robert Parker was killed outright and Thomas Walters was wounded, the latter dying early in the morning from the effects of his injuries.

The row began by Walters and William Parker getting into a dispute over some trifling matter, Parker finally being provoked by Walters from using it until Parker started for his wagon for his gun, when Walters fired at him, but missed his aim. Robert Parker, brother of William, then interfered, and attacked Walters with a pistol. Walters was weak from his bleeding wounds, but returned the fire, and at the third shot from his pistol Bob Parker fell dead in the street.

Marion Murphy, brother-in-law of Parker, next came upon the scene with two double barrel shotguns, one of which he handed to William Parker, who aimed away with both barrels at Walters.

Ex-County Judge J. J. Goento, who was trying to stop the fight, stepped in front of Walters just in time to receive both charges full in the stomach. He was borne bleeding into a store near by, into which Walters also rushed and renewed his supply of cartridges. He was on his way back to the scene of the fight, when Walters fired at him, and when he became too weak from the loss of blood to walk, and fell to the ground and was picked up by a friend.

The coroner's jury in the matter of the killing of Bob Parker, found that Walters killed him in self-defense. William Parker and Marion Murphy, who fired at Walters once, are now in jail closely guarded. Large numbers have been held on the body of Judge Goento. Walters will probably die.

WORKING FOR KANSAS CITY.
Tarsney Thinks It the Place for the Democratic Convention.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Word comes from Washington that Congressman John C. Tarsney of Kansas City has been doing some quiet but effective work in behalf of his town during the holiday season. He said that he thought the chances of Kansas City being chosen by the Democratic committee as the convention city were exceedingly good.

"None of the other cities which are striving to secure the convention can hold a candle to Kansas City in point of hotel accommodations," Mr. Tarsney said. "Some of the finest hotels in the country are in Kansas City. The Midland hotel has few equals. It is new and large, and furnishes the most comfortable and pleasant quarters for guests. The Cates house is another fine hotel. It occupies nearly an entire block, and has a large number of rooms. The Cetrópolis is another mammoth hotel. The Victoria is another. Its rooms are en suite, and each has a bath attached. The Exposition Building at Kansas City is well adapted to convention purposes. It has seven acres of floor space, and I don't think the Democrats will require more than that to accommodate them. It is easily reached by several lines of fast cable trains."

"I believe that it would be an exceedingly wise move from a political standpoint for the national committee to select Kansas City. It is the gateway to the great southwest and the trade center of Kansas, where the Democrats hope to make great gains. Finally Kansas City is easily reached from all points of the country. From the standpoint of availability, it clearly out-ranks the other cities mentioned in connection with the convention."

JAMES G. BLAINE
Fears Scandal Would Arise in the Next Campaign.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 4.—The opinion is expressed frequently by politicians that one of the reasons why James G. Blaine will not be a candidate for the presidency is that he fears the scandal which is certain to arise with reference to his son's marriage with Miss Marie Nevins. Judge C. S. Palmer, Mr. Blaine's attorney in her application for divorce in south Dakota, is one of the leading Republicans of that state, and is now being mentioned as a possible candidate for governor. It is his opinion that the scandal which would arise would have a marked effect upon the campaign.

"You know," said he, "that Blaine suffered more when he ran for the presidency over the scandalous accounts of his marriage than over anything else which was brought up in that memorable campaign. He has a great deal of pride and loves his family as much as any man of prominence in the country. The Blaines are anxious to make a family name of themselves, which would be carried down through the history of our country, and I believe they would suffer more from the outcome of another campaign than they would care to endure. Every one young Blaine has feared in—and they are numerous enough—would be exaggerated and made a thousand fold worse. Blaine wants to avoid the scandal, and he has foresight enough to know that the Democrats would make capital out of the circumstances of the unfortunate alliance."

NEWS DISPATCHES CONDENSED.

An Epitome of Happenings from Every Section.
A Knoxville, Tenn., special says: Some days since, Duroy Vaughn, an eccentric farmer, disappeared from his home and has been missing, when his body was found leaping against a straw stack in his home with a bullet hole in his head.

A Newark, O., special says that Jonas Hinkley has died from lung fever, caused by the grippe. Mr. Hinkley was quite well known among the American inventors, having invented a well known knitting machine, sewing machine and a carpet sweeper.

A Washington special says that the handsome building recently erected for the Army and Navy club, was formally opened with a brilliant reception. President and Mrs. Harrison, the members of the cabinet and a large number of the members of the diplomatic corps were present.

A New York special says: General Thomas Alcock died at his residence in this city. He was born in Birmingham, England, and was 77 years old. He served through the American civil war as a brigadier general for bravery in the field. He was the inventor of the porous plaster that bears his name.

A Pittsburgh special says that officials of the Carnegie, Frick & Co., the Allegheny Association will use a couple of days to fix the steel scale for the three months beginning Jan. 1. On account of the low price of steel billets, the wages of the steel workers will be lower after Jan. 1 than ever before.

A Montgomery, Ala., special says that Mr. M. B. Houghton, president of the Commercial and Industrial association, of this city, has received a letter from the mayor of Oakland requesting him to call a river convention to urge congress to make an increased appropriation for the improvement of the Coosa.

A Vienna dispatch states that a telegraphic message from Gratz says that a wealthy landowner of that place named Hambeck, having become impressed with the idea that his two sons, because they stammered, were suffering from hereditary insanity, had shot and killed them both. He then shot himself, and died soon afterwards.

A Bern dispatch says: The news has reached here of three men being killed in the Gemmi pass, in the Bernese Alps by being swallowed up in an avalanche. They had tried to cross the pass, and were herding the warning of their guides, who refused to accompany them on account of recent heavy snows, and declared their attempt foolhardy.

A Madrid dispatch states that the cabinet finally adopted the new tariff and it will be published January 1. The measure includes a provision for the imposition of minimum duties on imports from countries having treaties with Spain and for the placing of maximum rates on imports from other countries. The duty on cork is raised.

A Vienna dispatch states that a telegraphic message from Gratz says that a wealthy landowner of that place named Hambeck, having become impressed with the idea that his two sons, because they stammered, were suffering from hereditary insanity, had shot and killed them both. He then shot himself, and died soon afterwards.

A Vienna dispatch states that Prince Alfred Montevideo is the latest prominent victim of the influenza in this city. The deceased was born in Vienna in 1834, and died at the age of 57. He was a grandson of Adam Albert, count of Nieuwburg, and his second wife, Archduchess Marie Louise, widow of Napoleon I.

A St. Paul special says: A special postoffice inspector, together with Deputy United States Marshal Sheehan, and a number of constables, were in St. Paul, waiting for robbing the postoffice at Coffeyville, Kas., of stamps and money, two months ago, and the men were traced to this city, where H. E. Elliott, one of the supposed ring-leaders, was arrested.

A Paris dispatch says that an account of a wreck and loss of life has been received from Arcachon, a fishery port thirty-five miles from Bordeaux. The French steamer Albatross, employed in the oyster fishery at Arcachon, has been wrecked, and eleven of her crew—in fact, the whole crew with the exception of the captain—were drowned. One of the stokers was the only survivor.

A Boston special says: Contrary to general expectation Governor Russell refused to sign the pardon of James Dunlap, the Northampton bank robber, now in the state prison. Dunlap was sentenced to the Massachusetts state prison for twenty years. He entered the prison Jan. 1, 1878, and his time will expire, making the usual deduction for good behavior, during the year 1893.

A Chicago special says: Arthur Murfin was arrested here as he stepped from a Panhandle train at the union depot. He had at his person a large quantity of diamonds and jewelry which he had stolen from a guest at a Columbus, O., hotel, where he was employed as a waiter. Later he broke away from two officers at the central police station and was only recaptured after a lively chase and fusillade.

A Reading, Pa., special says that the directors of the Carpenters' Steel company, whose works were partially destroyed by fire last Saturday night, were in session, and orders will be given to rebuild the establishment at once, with numerous additions, so as to make it one of the most complete steel plants in the country. Several hundred men are engaged in clearing up the ruins and removing the debris.

A San Francisco special says: A woman giving the name of Florence Waterman has been arrested by detectives here, and it is claimed that she not only acknowledged being the wife of Marion Hedpath, who is suspected of being one of the gang of the train robbers which held up the train at Glendale, Mo., Nov. 30, but has given information which may lead to the arrest of other members of the gang.

A Kentland, Ind., special says: While in the dining-room elevator here Matthew, son of Hotel-keeper John Huberts, in company with A. Hollman, jumped into a bin containing 15,000 bushels of shelled corn which was being transferred into another bin from a valve at the bottom. The boys were testing their ability to extricate themselves after being buried down part way with the running corn. Young Huberts got in too deep, sank beneath the surface and was soon smothered to death.

IN BATTLE ARRAY.

Uncle Sam's Regulars and Garza's Revolutionists Meet.
SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 2.—A battle has been fought between Captain Bourke's command and Garza's forces, and the United States troops are undoubtedly in a very critical position at present.

The fears of General Stanley for the safety of Captain Bourke and his men were greatly augmented by the receipt of a dispatch from Captain Hardie, of the Third cavalry.

The dispatch came from a small station on the Mexican Central railroad, where it had been sent by a courier. It was so badly garbled in the transmission that the exact meaning of the dispatch could not be made out; but enough was gleaned from it, however, to learn that an engagement had taken place between Captain Bourke's men and the revolutionists, and that the former are in a critical position.

General Stanley, who ordered the dispatch repeated, has received no reply as yet. A fight occurred in either State or Duval county, and it is known that Garza's forces largely outnumbered Uncle Sam's. Bourke's point is so difficult that it is feared no relief can reach him in time to save his command from annihilation.

NOVEL PRIZE FIGHT.
An Indiana Woman Knocks Out a Lightweight Pugilist.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 2.—The news has just leaked out of a peculiar prize fight which occurred here at the Road house of Sam Coy, the notorious politician and tally-sheet forger.

One of the principals was Patrick McMahon, who has some reputation as a feather-weight pugilist, but the more interesting of the two was a woman, whose identity is not revealed, but who is thought to be the wife of a railroad conductor on Big Four.

She was dressed in pink tights and short skirts, and tipped the beam at 103 pounds. Two dozen spectators saw the fight, which lasted nine rounds.

The first seven rounds were bloody, the woman having the best of the fight. At the end of the seventh round the combatants were so bruised that half an hour's rest had to be taken, and the ninth round ended with McMahon being stretched out on the floor, knocked out by the woman's blow. McMahon was left upon his back. She was awarded a $500 purse.

THE CHILIAN CABINET.

Considering the Withdrawal of Matta's Offensive Note.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The new Chilean cabinet are considering the withdrawal of the offensive note sent by Foreign Minister Matta in reply to our demand relative to the Baltimore affair.

This presumptuous document will most likely be withdrawn. Germany has offered to act as arbitrator between the two countries. Uncle Sam doesn't want any arbitration. Peace seems to be in sight.

FOOD FOR RUSSIAN SUFFERERS.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 2.—Governor Thayer and Labor Commissioner Ludden are actively at work in securing the proposed train load of corn to be sent to famine sufferers of Russia, and from dozens of points in the state responses are coming to the proclamation of the governor.

Mr. Ludden estimates that 200,000 pounds of breadstuffs will be sent to Russia by Nebraska. Governor Thayer has received a letter from Governor Merriam, of Minnesota, stating that the Millers' organization there had raised 1,000,000 pounds of flour for Russia, and the latter expressed the hope as the Russian charter of affairs has agreed to charter a steamer to take the supplies across the ocean. Nebraska joins with Minnesota in making up a ship load. The latter expressed the hope as the Russian charter of affairs has agreed to charter a steamer to take the supplies across the ocean.

It is now a matter of time before the shipload made up from a few western states, but as the naval department said that Nebraska alone should have thirty-eight frigates. Constellation to take the supplies to St. Petersburg free of expense, the governor thinks that to be the better way of shipment.

FOUND AFTER TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS.

BRAZIL, Jan. 2.—Twenty-eight years ago John Wake and wife lived in England. They had a young son, whom a childless man and wife, living neighbors, took a great fancy to. They persuaded the Wakes to allow them to have the child to raise. The Wakes moved to this country and settled in this city. The child's adopted parents wrote that the child had died. The parents mourned for their son for all these years, when they were surprised to see a tall, fine looking man walk into their home and proclaim himself their child.

His adopted parents had become so attached to him that they could not give him up and wrote a false message of his death. He left England and came to America, and is now a prosperous farmer near Bloomington, Ill. He heard of his real parents by accidentally meeting a friend from his city who knew his parents and their address.

A LATE POSTMASTER ARRESTED.

EFFINGHAM, Ill., Jan. 2.—Sheriff Lederick arrested Mrs. Mary Vanderheide, late postmistress of Teutopolis, a village in this county, while she was waiting for the midnight train for Chicago. She was indicted by the grand jury of the county last fall on two charges of forgery, and was under $1,000 bond for her appearance at the March term of the circuit court. Her husbandman rendered her to the sheriff upon hearing of her intended departure from the county. He also has had thirty-eight charges of forgery against her before the United States prosecuting attorney at Springfield, for taking money from registered letters and appropriating money orders while postmistress. A few weeks ago she was removed from the office when a palpable fraud was unearthed under the very nose of one of the many postoffice inspectors who had been sent to investigate the affairs of the office.

THE NEW YEAR.

Eastern Financiers on the Financial and Business Outlook.
BALTIMORE, Jan. 1.—The Manufacturers' Record of this week publishes special letters from leading New York financiers as to the general and financial outlook for 1892. President French of the Manhattan Trust company, after referring to the enormous grain crops and the heavy foreign shipments of breadstuffs, says:

"The moral improvement resulting from this addition to our wealth is shown in the payment of the interest, and, in many instances, the principal of those western farm mortgages which have during the previous years been in a precarious condition. It is also shown in the increased bank reserves of the western institutions, which, for the first time in the history of the national banking system, have reached and even exceeded the reserves of the eastern cities. New York also now begins to feel the necessity of money, the bank statement of the past week showing the largest deposits on record ($40,000,000) with a corresponding reserve ($50,000,000) in excess of the legal requirement. With a sound financial system nothing can prevent this country from once taking the lead of the world in business and finance, and America will be the sceptre of commercial supremacy."

Mr. H. W. Cannon, president of the Chase National bank, writes: "From present indications the commercial outlook for 1892 is most excellent. The financial disturbances of the past year in Europe appear to have nearly passed away and the money market in London, where Mr. Baring has assumed nearly normal conditions. We have harvested a bountiful crop, not of cereals only, but of fruits and vegetables. In fact, all the products of the soil have been abundantly supplied. The case in Europe, we are able to supply our neighbors across the water with food products at reasonable prices, and the balance of trade will be in our favor for some time to come. As we may expect to receive money in return for food products as well as securities, the money market in the United States will probably be easy, and all sorts of business in this country will be stimulated thereby. It is to be hoped that speculation will not become too rampant with us, and that we will not put the price of our products and securities during the next six months to an abnormal point."

Mr. William P. St. John, president of the Mercantile National bank, says: "The make-up of the committees of the new house of representatives is excellent from a banker's point of view. We are thereby assured against tariff making for purely partisan, political effect. The merchant and manufacturer are, therefore, not to be kept dreadfully anxious all the season. Ordinary currents of business are not to be disturbed."

WASHINGTON NEWS.

President Meets of Chitt, Chooses His Cabinet—Other Items.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 1.—President Montt of Chitt has selected his cabinet, and every one of them have, of course, accepted, and they have all been sworn in. Chitt is now able to do business as a properly organized republic.

The question now arises, will Minister Eagan longer protect insurgents that have been under his care? Senator Carlisle and other real statesmen say that they should now be turned over to the organized authorities.

Minister Montt has delivered a dispatch from Chitt to Mr. Blaine, which exterminates Chitt's offense and goes to show that the government is willing to punish guilty parties and make proper reparation.

The Herald publishes in full for the first time, Chitt's side of the correspondence. This correspondence affirms that the Valparaiso difficulty occurred in the worst quarter of the city, through an irrepressible mob, that all possible effort was made to quell, and that Chitt has and always been anxious to see justice done.

Murat Halsted, who now regularly cables his views from Rome to this country, publishes a letter in which he says that the next Democratic nominees for president, Blaine vs. Flower is the way it reads in a Halsted.

A Train Load of Cranks.

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.—A train load of cranks will pass over the Illinois Central railroad from Elgin to Chester on Tuesday evening next. It will be the first event of the kind in the history of Illinois, and minute arrangements were completed to prevent any wholesale outbreak of individual escapes. To avoid excitement that might result from gatherings of eight-seers at stations en route, the unique run will be made at night. The hundred unfortunate who are to make the journey are the criminal insane wards of the state, who, by recent act of the legislature, were ordered separated from other insane patients. The criminal will hereafter be housed by themselves on a high bluff near the Chester penitentiary.

Threatened With Destruction.

NASHVILLE, Jan. 1.—At two o'clock in the morning a telephone message was received from Clarksville, stating that the Franklin house and several other buildings were on fire, and the whole city was threatened with destruction. A second message was received at 3 o'clock asking for aid, as the fire was spreading rapidly and the city seemed doomed to destruction. A strong wind was blowing at the time. Arrangements are being made to send a portion of the fire department to Clarksville to aid the fire stricken town.

Crushed by an Iron Safe.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Jan. 1.—While a number of men were raising a second thousand pound iron safe to a second story building, the ropes broke when the safe was near its destination, and fell, crushing into pulp William Price and wounding two other workmen.

DUN ON BUSINESS.

How the Holiday Trade Fanned Out—The Prospects.
NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co., number for the United States 307 and Canada 23, or a total of 330, compared with 392 last week and 335 the week previous. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 348.

Holiday Trade Reports.

The old year has closed with a little more than the usual holiday dullness in general trade, but reports as to the volume of the holiday trade are mainly satisfactory. Chicago was the heaviest ever known; at St. Louis it was unusually large, and in jewelry the biggest known, but at Philadelphia and New Orleans it was not quite up to expectations, and at Little Rock and St. Paul it was disappointing.

Quiet in other trades at this season is not a bad sign, and nearly all reports add that the prospects for the coming year are considered unusually bright.

Too Much Cotton.

Exceptions are to be found at the south, where the unusually low price of cotton and the accumulation of extraordinary stocks cause depression in trade and stringency in the money market, but at New Orleans the money market is easier, though still there is a strong demand for iron, making the south an obstacle to general production at present, the over-production of cotton being the cause.

Receipts at ports are no longer equal to last year's, and yet do not fall off as much as expected, while the accumulation of stocks has become a heavy financial burden, and the price has dropped three-sixteenths during the past week to 74 for middling uplands at New York.

The Provision Market.

The sugar movement is large at New Orleans, with prices improving, and the movements of rice steady, and tobacco is fairly sustained in the northern market, but the southern trade depends so largely upon cotton that a serious depression necessarily follows the lowest price for many years.

It must be added that the greatly increased production of iron has made it very low, and thus strained the resources of many new and costly works at the south, while the bottom has gone out of many speculations in real estate. On the other hand, the west is peculiarly favored by an enormous foreign demand for crops, which would otherwise be depressed because the largest ever known.

What comes forward as rapidly as the crowded conditions of the railroad will permit, and exports, though reduced last year, are very large again this week, and for six months have exceeded 120,000,000 bushels, flour included, whereas the greatest movement ever known in the last half of any previous year was 115,000,000, in 1879. The price has declined nearly 1 per cent during the last week; corn 24 and oats 4, but prices are highly satisfactory to western farmers.

Port products are a shade lower; coffee nearly a cent lower; oil five-eighths lower, and the prices of all commodities average more than one-half of 1 per cent lower for the week.

The Money Markets.

The money markets continue well supplied and undisturbed and the treasury has again paid out more than $1,000,000 in excess of its receipts for the week.

Foreign exchange tends lower, indicating larger imports of gold, and no doubt day. Foreign trade continued exceedingly favorable for while the increase of imports at New York during the past month has been about 1 per cent, increase in exports there have been over $10,178,000, or about 37 per cent, which would indicate an excess of exports over imports exceeding $46,000,000 for the month.

The stock market has been strong toward the close of the year, and dividends declared have been encouraging, but the record of receipts during the year indicates a twenty-five per cent with 3,150 miles in operation and $84,479,000 in stock and bonds.

One on Governor Chase.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 1.—Governor Chase has figured in the marriage of an eloping couple since he donned the official robes, and much fun is being made of him at the state capital. James Hodell and Miss Nancy D. Warrick, school teachers of Parke county, were betrothed, but opposition to their marriage developed, and they quietly withdrew to this city, where a brother of the bride assisted in getting the necessary license. Then they waited upon the governor, knowing him to be a minister of the gospel, and a wedding followed, Private Secretary Roberts giving the bride away. Not a hint was dropped that they were a runaway couple, and the secret did not leak out until the teacher of Parke county, in attendance upon the state convention, gave the snap away.

Carroll Wants to Fight Fritchard.

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Fred Gallagher, the special correspondent of The London Sporting Life, now in New York with Mitchell and Slavin, had an interview with Jimmy Carroll, the middle-weight pugilist. Carroll offered to meet Ted Pritchard for $5,000 a side and the largest purse offered by a London athletic club. Mr. Gallagher telegraphed that fact to his paper. Carroll is ready to fight at 138 pounds, and is willing to put up the stakes with George W. Atkinson, athletic editor of The Sporting Life. Mitchell and Slavin were present at the interview. The former was interested in the new Bolingbroke club, of London, is anxious to have the "go" take place under its auspices.

Knocked Out a Heavy Weight.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 1.—John Diotel, the heaviest man in the United States, who with his giant wife had been on exhibition at the museum here, died of the grip, after a illness of two days. His weight was 768 pounds, his age 24. He had been in Danbury, and married his wife, a Miss Wrenn of Lima.

THE PAST YEAR.

The Industrial and Business Growth of the South.
BALTIMORE, Dec. 31.—The Manufacturers' Record of this week, in its annual review of the industrial and general business interests of the south during the past year, shows that that section has made very solid and substantial progress, true from any speculative operations, notwithstanding the general financial stringency and the low price of cotton.

The decline in the price of cotton is largely offset by the great increase in the south's grain crops, but cotton has so long been the staple crop, that low prices caused a lack of confidence greater than is justified. This, however, will pass away with the general improvement in business throughout the country.

The production of corn in the south in 1891 was about 563,000,000 bushels, the largest crop ever raised, exceeding the crop of 1890 by 117,000,000 bushels. The wheat crop was about 50,000,000 bushels, a gain of 16,000,000 bushels over 1890, the total yield of wheat and corn for the year being about 837,000,000 bushels. During the year the south completed twenty-eight blast furnaces, ten rolling mills, one Bessemer rail mill in Maryland, and one large Bessemer plant in Kentucky, all of which have either gone into operation or are about ready to commence. It has also nearly finished two cotton textile mills, one in Virginia, with English and American capital. The low price of iron has enforced economy in furnace management, and so reduced the cost of iron making that Alabama furnaces are reported to be in stronger financial shape than a year ago, and to be making good profits even at the low figure prevailing.

The production of coal in 1891 was about 23,000,000 tons, against 6,500,000 tons in 1882, or ten years ago. West Virginia alone now mines more coal than the whole south did ten years ago. The output of pig iron in the south in 1891, as indicated by special reports to the Manufacturers' Record, was about 1,916,000 tons. The total assessed value of property as shown by official returns, is $4,816,000,000, a gain of $320,000,000 over 1890, the largest gain ever made in one year, and a gain of $1,400,000,000 over 1889, when the south first commenced to develop its industrial interests. Every state in the south shows a large increase during the year in the value of property. The heaviest gain being in Texas.

The south's foreign trade has developed very rapidly, and a large number of regular European steamship lines are now running from New Orleans, Norfolk and New Orleans. The total value of the exports from the entire country in November was $110,000,000, of which nearly one-half, or $53,300,000, was from the south. The value of the eleven months ended November 30, 1891, the value of foreign exports from southern ports was $336,500,000, an increase of $28,000,000 over the same time in 1890.

The foreign imports also at southern ports increased during the eleven months ending Nov. 30, over $9,000,000, while during the same period the aggregate imports at all other United States ports decreased $13,000,000, as compared with the same time last year.

NIMISHLOT PLOT UNEARTHED.

There are now over 100,000 employees of the United States Government. There are more than half a million of these officials, and each of these officials and employees would necessarily influence the Government in some way, and their support depend on the Government. What man, who loves our institutions, would wish to increase the number of Federal Government employees from a million and a half of employees and officials? An administration with such a large army of voters, depending on its movement, would be forced and would have to be forced at the polls. Giving the wide margins for inflated valuations, the roads cost five billion of dollars. They cost largely the same amount of money. The purchase would entail an increase of five billions of bonds, and much of this issue would go abroad. Railroading, however, is a business in which the stockholders pay. Scores of railroads go into the hands of receivers and are sold, often at a loss to their original owners. Who would be the buyers? Who would be the owners? Who must make good the deficit? Are the tariff of rates to become a sport of political parties? The know-

The Republican.

L. W. GRANT, Publisher.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 16, 1892.

We publish elsewhere the resolutions of the Cotton Convention recently held in Memphis. It will be seen that this important body of men takes the view that the REPUBLICAN has heretofore elaborated, to wit: that the merchants ought to help the farmers in their effort to reduce the cotton acreage and otherwise get on their feet. We feel fully assured that the merchants of Calhoun will do their part. Let the press of the State take the matter up and induce the merchants all over the State to co-operate on this line with the farmers. The result will be good times all around in Alabama next year.

The Alliance Herald asserted last week that the Jones delegates in Jefferson county had refused to consent to a prorogue with Kolb; when the fact was the Jones delegates had published the fact through the Age-Herald that they did intend to prorogue and that Mr. Kolb's friends should select 12 of the 26 delegates to the State Convention. What was a contrary statement made for but to prejudice voters against the Governor? The people need be afraid of no unfairness by Governor Jones. He is too honorable a man for that. He rebuked unfair methods in Madison.

The result in Madison was a victory for the Governor. The county was regarded as overwhelmingly for Kolb and it was before the Governor went there. The Committee made a mistake which the people of Madison have taken the whole delegation by a contest of Lanier's box where the polls were held open a half hour and closed after two Kolb and one Jones man had voted, but for the sake of party harmony the delegation was divided. The Central Committee of Madison have probably learned by this time that it pays to be fair in politics as well as other things.

Mr. Noah Baugh, of Cane Creek, died last Monday night with a grippe and pneumonia. Mr. Baugh has been overseeing for Maj. T. W. Francis for a long time. He was a good citizen.

The big counties in the State are taking up the election of the delegates to the State Convention one at a time. It seems to us that the Executive Committees of these counties are altogether too previous. The State Convention has not been called by the Executive Committee and no basis of representation fixed, thus it would seem that these gentlemen are counting their chickens before they are hatched. It seems to us that the action of the Executive Committee of Jefferson and Madison counties has been altogether beyond their province, in that they have sought to fix the ratio of representation for the State Convention without its consent.—Roanoke Herald.

The death of Mr. I. L. Swan, treasurer of Calhoun County, removes from among men one of the truest characters it has ever been the fortune of the county to claim. Modest retiring but methodical and careful in all his dealings he made a model treasurer.—Anniston News.

A Cannon Unearthed.

Workmen laying a sewer on Dauphin street at the corner of Royal yesterday unearthed a big cannon. The instrument of destruction is lying about 4 feet below the surface of the soil, and the greater part is under the sidewalk in front of the Zadek Jewelry company's store. So large is the piece of ordnance that no effort was made to remove it. It is estimated as a twenty-four pounder. How it came there and to what era it belongs could not be discovered.—Mobile Register.

A Unique Announcement.

W. J. Jackson thus announces himself for Probate Judge in Jackson county, in the Scottsboro Herald: To the Voters of Jackson County: I announce myself as a candidate for the office of Probate Judge, subject to the decision of the Democratic primary election. To let the people know the kind of a Democrat I am, I will say here that I favor the Mills tariff bill, the Australian ballot and woman suffrage. I am for the Farmers' Alliance from Baby Cleveland to Baby McKee. I am opposed to free coinage of silver. I am dead against the third party, sub-treasury and force bill for a side show. I pledge my support to the Democratic nominees, world without end.

Now I want it distinctly understood that I want every candidate to say what he is for. This is no time for mugwumps. If nothing else, say they are Democrats. This is one of the wedges to the Presidential election, and the Republicans are now waiting for the cat to jump. Now, I am for Cleveland for President, Jones for Governor, Wheeler for Congress, Maples for the Senate, and Wiley Frasier for Representative. Now, gentlemen, say what you are; that is the kind of a Democrat I am.

LESS COTTON.

SECOND DAY'S SESSION OF THE CONVENTION OF PLANTERS.

Series of Resolutions Adopted Looking to a Shortening of the Crop and Diversified Farming—Pandemonium Breaks Loose in the Discussion.

MEMPHIS, TENN., Jan. 9.—The convention of cotton growers, after recess last evening listened to the following report from the Committee on Resolutions:

First—We recommend that this convention do proceed to organize a permanent organization to be known as the "Cotton Growers' and Merchants' Association."

Second—We recommend that said organization shall consist of one president, treasurer, and one vice-president from each of the cotton-growing States.

Third—We recommend that there be local organizations of said Cotton Growers' and Merchants' Association organized in every State, county and town in the cotton growing region, and that said local organization shall, where possible and practicable, co-operate with any farmers' organization now in existence.

Fourth—We recommend that the reduction in acreage planted in cotton for the year 1892 be 20 per cent. less than that planted in 1891.

Fifth—We recommend that each and every farmer or planter within said cotton growing States do plant more diversified crops, and especially take extraordinary precautions to the end that he shall produce an abundance of corn, peas, hay, oats and such other necessities for his own and his family's supply. And we hope to see personally and individually that each and every person favoring this movement do lend his aid and influence to further this end.

Sixth—In view of the fact that the mercantile interest of the South is largely held responsible, whether rightly or not, for the planting of cotton verging upon the exclusion of other products, it is therefore suggested and hopefully urged upon them to contribute by their advice and in other substantial ways to the bringing about of this coveted reform in our farming methods.

Seventh—We recommend that a committee of five be appointed by the president, whose duty it shall be to draft such a constitution and by-laws as are necessary to carry into effect the objects of this organization.

Eighth—We recommend that each member and delegate in this convention use their united and individual efforts to carry into effect these resolutions, and that they urge their people at home to strive for a generally good carrying out of spirit and purpose of the same.

EVENLY DIVIDED.

RESULT OF THE CONTEST IN MADISON COUNTY.

Yesterday's Convention Settles the Question by Giving Four Votes to Jones and the Other Four to Kolb.

The contest in Madison county is over. And the delegation will go to the State Convention with four votes for Governor Jones and four for his opponent.

As the telegraph stated Sunday morning the contest was very close. Later returns showed that Jones was the choice of forty-six delegates to the county convention while Kolb would receive the votes of the other forty-seven. But in one of the beats, Lanier's, which was entitled to three delegate and which went for Kolb, the polls were closed by some of Kolb's schemers at eleven o'clock, before the Jones men began to vote.

On account of this underhanded work the Jones men very naturally and properly raised a row, and it was left for the county convention, which assembled in Huntsville yesterday, to settle the matter.

The following telegram received last night briefly announces the result:

BIRMINGHAM, Jan. 11.—The Madison delegation was divided evenly—four for Jones and four for Kolb. Solid for Walker for Judge.

She Fought in Three Wars.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Jan. 11.—Mrs. Andrew Brady died tonight. She was a widow of two soldiers, and fought by the side of both husbands. Her first husband was Capt. Phillip R. Thompson, a West Pointer, with whom she went through an Indian campaign and the Mexican war. In 1855 he joined the Walker expedition to Nicaragua, and Mrs. Brady was on the trip. After her husband's death she married the other soldier, Maj. Brady joined the Confederacy, and she accompanied him at Charlestonville, carrying her wounded husband off the battlefield, placing him in the hospital and nursing him back to health. Mrs. Brady was Miss Harriet Lockett, was born in New Orleans in 1831, and was married at 17. In her youth she was noted for her beauty.

A WHAT IS IT?

THAT LIT UP THE ETOWAH COUNTY SATURDAY NIGHT.

A Great Explosion That Has Not Been Explained—May Be a Meteor.

GADSDEN, Jan. 10.—Our quiet city was thrown into a state of excitement Saturday night about 8 o'clock by a tremendous explosion, which shook all the buildings in the city. The people rushed to their doors, to see the heavens illuminated with a lurid and ghastly light. Immediately after the explosion there was a low, rumbling sound, growing heavier with each moment, and then dying out after a lapse of about three minutes.

Great excitement prevailed, and the people flocked to the city to learn the cause. Many theories were advanced as to the cause of the explosion, some saying it was a meteor, others a magazine explosion and various other theories.

Your reporter used the wires extensively, but could not learn the cause of it. It was felt distinctly in Attala and Collinsville, shaking the buildings considerably.

The superstitious negroes were terribly frightened, and some prayed and sang all night.

In the western part of the city the shock was felt heavier than in the city, and some report chinaware shaken down and broken, also bricks on the mantels and walls.

ATTALA'S SUPPOSITION.

ATTALA, Jan. 10.—Since the above was written your reporter has arrived in Attala, and the supposition here is that the magazine at Littleton exploded. But wiser heads came to the conclusion that it was a meteor or something exploded in the air. The explosion is still a mystery and is creating a great deal of excitement.

ABOUT COTTON.

The Chattanooga Times: The New York Sun suggests, that "if the acreage devoted to the cotton must be reduced what other crop can be advantageously raised by the landholders, who are aware that the country is already abundantly supplied with corn and all kinds of grain?"

The "country" may be "supplied," etc., but the Southern planter and the Southern cities get their chief supply of bread, and of meat as well, from the Northwest, paying exorbitant freights and two or three profits on the materials.

If we raise these supplies at home, which can be done, the South would not be perpetually drained of all the money realized on cotton raised with hired labor.

Jackson (Tenn.) Times: With an apparent surplus over the world's demand for cotton the price cannot advance.

Pine Bluff Commercial: All over the south there seems to be a united effort on the part of the farmer to make some steps toward reducing the production of cotton next year and thus keep up the price. Undoubtedly something should be done, but it will be singular, notwithstanding all the planning and talking on subject, if there isn't just as much land devoted to cotton next year as ever.

New Orleans Picayune: There can be no doubt but that the ruling low prices have convinced the farmers that to make cotton profitable they must plant less of it and endeavor to reduce the cost of producing their cash crop by raising all they can consume at home. As is well known, the cotton farmer is contented to devote all his energies to cotton, while paying high prices for supplies, most of which he could provide for himself. The lesson of the present season is likely to result in more corn and hogs, vegetables and poultry, and less cotton in the South during the coming year, a policy which has been advocated for years.

Jackson West Tennessee Whig: Not only has the cotton ceased to be profitable but, worse still, its continued and persistent cultivation has impoverished much of our soil and unfitted it for the production of more remunerative crops. Not only so, but it has crippled our energies, dampened our ardor and well nigh destroyed our pluck and confidence.

THE ACTION INDORSED.

Commissioners of Agriculture Meet and Transact Business.

At the Cotton Exchange yesterday the agricultural commissioners from the several States met for the purpose of indorsing the action of the Cotton Growers' and Merchants' Convention.

The following was adopted and will be widely distributed: To All Interested or Engaged in the Production of Cotton:

The commissioners of agriculture, representing the States of Alabama, Arkansas, North Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee, being impressed with the necessity of the reduction of the acreage of cotton and the greater diversification of the crops for home consumption, we hereby indorse the action of the Cotton-growers' and Merchants' Convention held in the city of Memphis, Tenn., on the 8th of January, 1892. We earnestly appeal to all agricultural and mercantile organizations consisting of alliances, granges, States and county agricultural societies, boards of trade, cotton exchanges, chambers of commerce, etc., also individual farmers and merchants, to assist and co-operate with us in securing the foregoing results, and to this end recommend the general and local adoption of the action of the convention, pledging themselves to a reduction of not less than 20 per cent of the cotton acreage of last year. And we further urge and recommend the immediate organization of State, county and districts or townships, to act either independently or through already organized societies, as may be deemed best and will most readily insure the benefits arising from concert of action, and decrease production of cotton for the year 1892.

DUN & CO., ON BUSINESS.

A Weekly Review of the Various Business Interests.

New York, Jan. 18.—Business failures occurring throughout the country during the past week, as reported by R. G. Dun & Co., number, for the United States, 237; Canada, 42; total, 279; against 435 the previous week.

It was suggested two weeks ago that exports in December were likely to be extraordinarily large. Preliminary reports just issued indicate that the exports in that month were probably the largest ever known, for, while no increase appears in cotton and exports of provisions, cattle and oil were slightly less than a year ago, a gain of $20,109,000 appears in breadstuffs, making a net increase in the principal items of $17,540,854, or nearly 20 per cent., indicating that the aggregate exports for the month will probably exceed $110,000,000, against about $98,000,000 last year, when the amount was greater than it had ever been in any month.

The exports of flour increased 50 per cent., and exports of wheat 15,000,000 bushels, against 4,500,000 bushels last year, while the exports of cotton are 43,000,000 pounds, or nearly 20 per cent., indicating that the aggregate exports for the month will probably exceed $110,000,000, against about $98,000,000 last year, when the amount was greater than it had ever been in any month.

NEWS DISPATCHES CONDENSED.

Items of Interest Gathered from All Over the World.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—An express wagon belonging to the United States Express company was quietly and very coolly taken possession of and driven off by a slightly built young man, wearing a gray overcoat and a derby hat, about 6 o'clock in the evening.

Scores of people saw the man commit the daring theft, but his manner gave no indication that he was other than he pretended to be—one of the drivers for the express company.

William McElroy, the regularly employed driver, was finishing up his rounds for the day among the whole-sale tailoring establishments on Market street. He stopped at the corner of Van Buren to get a parcel. His "watchman," a man on the box of the wagon, while McElroy collected the packages, became cold and left his perch to kick his heels against the stonewall of the express company's warehouse. The thief, who has not yet been caught, slipped through the fingers of the police and escaped.

All the police stations in the city were notified to look out for a one-horse United States Express wagon, stop all of them and a rigid inquiry before you allow them to pass. This was done, and at 12 o'clock the horse and wagon and four pigeons in a coop were found in an alley off Eighteenth street, near Canal, by Sergeant Laughlin, who reported the discovery to the chief of police.

The Iowa Democratic committee will soon hold its annual convention at the hotel of the Iowa Democratic committee in the city of Des Moines.

J. S. Slinger of Galesburg, Ill., was indicted for $2,000 and jewelry on a train near Opa by drinking drugged liquor with a stranger.

Governor Fifer has named a commissioner to arrange for the grand military competition near Chicago, during the World's Fair.

Every effort will be made to get a new trial for Dr. Graves, who was sentenced to twenty years imprisonment by Judge Hoffman. No less than nine indictments stand against him for improper connection with girls ranging in age from 10 to 15 years. He is a man 64 years of age, a wholover, stoop-shouldered, weighs about 150 pounds, and his hair is as white as snow. He is a thinner by occupation, and up to last October, Philip Basman, of New Lexington, Ohio, was in his company for twenty-five years, and never heard of or knew anything against his character.

At the November term he was tried and found guilty, but Mr. Butler, his attorney, moved the court for a special jury to try the sanity of the prisoner. The jury, composed of twelve men, one of whom, Mr. Butler alleges, were special friends of Prosecuting Attorney Donahue, and inclined to favor him.

Eighty witnesses were subpoenaed and sworn, among them Professor Hamilton, of seven, and Professor Bartley, of seven, and a number of experts from the Columbus asylum. These men swore that Harris is insane. Four other physicians, among them Dr. R. B. Woodard, swore to the same effect. The jury, however, returned a verdict of insanity, including Dr. J. D. Day.

A DANGEROUS RIDE.
And the Lucky Escape of a Man and His Team.

ANDERSON, La., Jan. 15.—Harvey Duncanson, of Summitville, in this county, has had a very close call for his life, and escaped a horrible death by a miracle. He drove over to Eaton to get a traveling man and drive him across the country to Summitville. Just as he was crossing the tracks of the Port Wayne and Cincinnati railroad, a freight train came rushing by. The engine struck Duncanson's carriage and lifted both the wagon and its contents high into the air. When it fell it lit upon the roof where the man was seated. The train had just passed.

Duncanson, with rare presence of mind, extricated himself from his perilous position, and crawling around the engine to the burning barn, clambered into the cab and struck blows with the engine, who congratulated Duncanson on his miraculous escape from death.

The engineer managed to stop the train a few yards off, and more from the scene of the accident, and assisted Duncanson to remove the wrecked carriage from the tracks. Duncanson escaped without a scratch, and his horses, although stripped of their harness, were found to be uninjured.

A FOOLISH GIRL
Goes to Her Own Election.
A Black Fiddle.

CANTON, O., Jan. 15.—Emma Bellamy, a comely white miss of 16 years, left her home on Sunday, after notifying her parents that she had secured a position as a domestic. Later her mother learned that she was at a questionable colored house and immediately visited the place. When she had gained admission she saw her daughter and Cal Hackett, a colored man, hurrying away. She gave chase and her husband, who has been seriously ill with a grippé, followed her. The man overtook the couple. The colored man turned upon him, holding the father, and notified the girl to run. She did, and soon the man released the father and started off alone. Two weeks to continue the chase he returned home, and the police were notified. No trace of the couple has been secured.

A FRENCHMAN'S FOLLY
Geta Him Into Serious Trouble, Which May Result Fatally.

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 15.—Philip Leduc has been arrested here, charged with having killed Brickell, the 14-year-old daughter of Fred Brickell, a farmer living a few miles from this city. Leduc is a Frenchman about 30 years of age. He has been employed by Brickell for the past two years on the farm. The girl is a grand daughter of Millionaire John Brickell, who died here several months ago, and is heir to nearly a million dollars. Leduc denies all connection with the affair, but the girl swears to the truth of her statements.

Goes to Her Own Election.
A Black Fiddle.

CANTON, O., Jan. 15.—Emma Bellamy, a comely white miss of 16 years, left her home on Sunday, after notifying her parents that she had secured a position as a domestic. Later her mother learned that she was at a questionable colored house and immediately visited the place. When she had gained admission she saw her daughter and Cal Hackett, a colored man, hurrying away. She gave chase and her husband, who has been seriously ill with a grippé, followed her. The man overtook the couple. The colored man turned upon him, holding the father, and notified the girl to run. She did, and soon the man released the father and started off alone. Two weeks to continue the chase he returned home, and the police were notified. No trace of the couple has been secured.

A FRENCHMAN'S FOLLY
Geta Him Into Serious Trouble, Which May Result Fatally.

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 15.—Philip Leduc has been arrested here, charged with having killed Brickell, the 14-year-old daughter of Fred Brickell, a farmer living a few miles from this city. Leduc is a Frenchman about 30 years of age. He has been employed by Brickell for the past two years on the farm. The girl is a grand daughter of Millionaire John Brickell, who died here several months ago, and is heir to nearly a million dollars. Leduc denies all connection with the affair, but the girl swears to the truth of her statements.

END OF THE INVESTIGATION.

The Baltimore Inquiry Has Been Completed—Brutal Treatment of Sailors.

VALLEJO, Cal., Jan. 14.—The Baltimore inquiry has been completed. It has lasted six days, and every aspect of the affair has been fully investigated. The first four days were taken up with the testimony of men who related their individual experiences during the riot. By these facts were clearly brought out that the attack was premeditated, and that the police and soldiers added the mob in their deadly work. The fifth day, medical officers of the ship testified as to the wounds received by the Baltimore men and as to the criminal neglect of the wounded sailors in the Valparaíso hospital, the authorities refusing to treat the men themselves or to allow the Baltimore surgeons to do so. Several senior officers testified as to the legal proceedings in Valparaíso, bringing out clearly the utter failure of the Valparaíso court to establish any of the charges against the sailors, and the cure which the judges of crimes exercised in avoiding any questions which might bring forth reflections on the Valparaíso police. Then Captain Selley took the stand and proceeded to give a running account of the whole history of the ship since first reaching Valparaíso. He spoke over an hour, clearly and forcibly, and was listened to with great attention by the audience that crowded the courtroom. He showed forth plainly the inception and growth of the anti-American feeling among the Chileans, and the many discourtesies he was subjected to. He said that he was on shore shortly before the riot began, and they were all sober. But even if they had not been, he declared he saw no reason why they should have been visited with capital punishment for being drunk.

Lieutenant McGee testified at length as to the ill feeling towards Americans. The Quintero affair was the greatest cause of it. He said that the next day the Valparaíso was filled with lies and exaggerated stories of all kinds. Captain Selley, commanding the Baltimore, testified.

"When we arrived at Valparaíso, in possession of the congressional letters, the people here, though not hostile, were decidedly unfriendly. The junta, in answer to the letters, stated that they did not do so because they could not afford to do so because of a violation of the laws of neutrality, nor could they defend the state of their officers in escaping from the municipal authorities of San Diego. Nevertheless, after her delivery the whole tone of the people changed. Papers stated that the United States was guilty of an act of injustice which could never be forgotten or forgiven."

THE PROPOSED RECIPROCITY Favored by a Leading French Official's Opinions at Length.

PARIS, Jan. 14.—Deputy Sigfried, who was active in establishing the negotiations for the commercial treaty with the United States, has said to a reporter: "I consider that the treaty will be favorable to both countries. It will facilitate the entry into France of several leading American agricultural and mining products, while France's industrial and artistic products will have a large sale in the United States. This moment is opportune, and the French parliament has just asked the government to endeavor to lessen the price of the poor people's light."

The government of the United States, rather than let Russia get all the benefit of the marked lowering of duties on petroleum, asked to ask a reduction of one-half of our actual tariff on petroleum and salt pork, offering in exchange an equal reduction on French silks and woolsens, besides pictures and art works of Paris. On these conditions an arrangement can be obtained by which the commerce between the two countries, now scarcely amounting to 60,000,000 francs, will be doubled in five years.

Deputy George S. Birger, speaking on the same topic, said: "Our ports have been opened to American salt meats, and the United States should give something in return. The United States should reduce the tariff on our wines and dress goods."

Louis Grandau, a member of the superior council of agriculture, said: "In response to the inquiry done by the Minister of Agriculture, I have replied by placing a high duty on American grain while encouraging the importation of Australian, Indian and Russian grain. A treaty on a fair basis is desirable for both countries."

The Republican.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 23, 1892.

The Talladega Reporter seeks to make capital for its favorite for Congress by trying to create prejudice against Calhoun. This county is charged with greediness in again wanting the Congressman and we are plainly told that the time has come when Talladega should again have it. Had the editor of the Reporter been better acquainted with the history of this section, he would have steered clear of any such issue. Since the territory now embraced by Calhoun and Talladega became a part of Alabama, ten men have represented it in Congress, eight of whom were from Talladega continuously and only two from Calhoun. Should Calhoun have six more Congressmen straight along, she would then only be even with Talladega.

But Calhoun bases no claim upon the fact that Talladega has had a Representative in Congress continuously since the county became a part of the State until the advent of Gen. Forney, (Hon. Jno. H. Caldwell and Hon. Taul Bradford holding contemporaneously.) The District is entitled to the best man it can get regardless of residence. County lines are imaginary divisions. If the Reporter has got the best man, it may spare itself any charges of greediness on Calhoun people or any propositions to trade with Dallas people. The people of the whole District will likely make the right choice.

Meantime, the Reporter should know that in this country a candidate wins or fails on his own merits or demerits and not on any quality of his antagonist or the character of his constituency. If Calhoun people were greedy, as the Reporter would have the people believe, it would have nothing to do with who should represent the District in Congress. But they are not. They are just like other people in the District—no better, no worse. They have a right to present a fellow-citizen to the voters of the District without being charged with greediness by a Talladega paper. They will presumably present no man whose character has a stain. If he wins it will be through advertisement of no short coming of any opponent or by reason of any trick or trade, or by any sort of compromise of Democratic principle. If he loses, he nor the Democracy of Calhoun will sulk, but will be foremost among the supporters of the man who wins the compliment of Democratic endorsement in the District Convention.

The County Alliance met at a point some miles north of Jacksonville Tuesday and Wednesday. The weather was very inclement. Dr. Groce was in attendance and, we presume, spoke on the Ocala demands. We learn from Alliance men who attended that no nominations were made for county officers, and that Messrs M. W. Woodruff, N. D. Meharg, B. G. McClellan, H. L. Whitesides and A. T. Hanna were appointed to attend the District Alliance Convention at Talladega Thursday.

We are requested to call the attention of the voters of Calhoun county to the fact that Mr. D. M. Sawyer, whose announcement for tax assessor appears this week, withdrew voluntarily from the race for the same office four years ago, in order to prevent the possibility of a Republican being elected to the office. His friends think that this piece of political liberality is now deserving of recognition at the hands of the Democracy of Calhoun, and hence they ask this paper to refresh the memory of voters on this head.

Things are getting warm among the newspaper men of Lee County. The Phoenix City Advance, under management of Mr. S. D. Beach, recently said some pretty severe things of Mr. Chas. H. Greer of the Opelika Industrial News, whereupon Mr. Greer retorted as follows:

The statements contained in the attack are infamous, puerile and untrue, and I denounce said S. D. Beach as a dirty hireling, an infamous liar, an unscrupulous scoundrel and a coward—epithets which no gentleman deserves and under which no brave man will rest.

Mr. Gaston A. Robbins, of Dallas county, has been formally announced as a candidate for Congress from this District, by the Selma Journal. Mr. Robbins is a member of the bar of Selma and a staunch Democrat. He is a thorough gentleman and will conduct his part of the campaign on principles of the highest honor.

Since Dallas county has a candidate for Congress in the field, it is in order for the Talladega Reporter to withdraw all propositions for reciprocal favors and set about convincing that county that it is wrong for Dallas to ask it over Talladega, seeing that Talladega has had only eight members of Congress to date.

Rev. T. P. Gwin, of Oxford, will during the year 1892 serve the Baptist church, at Weaver's Station, Piedmont Springs, Seddon and Eulaton. He is a venerable servant of the Lord, greatly beloved by the people of Calhoun in and out of his church and his ministry to these churches will result in great good.

The Mississippi Legislature has elected George and Walthal United States Senators.

HON. L. W. GRANT.

The View takes pleasure in presenting the above named gentleman to its readers as a candidate for Congress in this District.

Mr. Grant has no doubt had longer experience as a legislator in the General Assembly of the State than any man within our knowledge. For fifteen years or more he has been a member of the State Senate or the House of Representatives, and each recurring session he has added to his reputation as a wise and safe legislator, and as a Democrat of that quality that is ever faithful to the interests of the State as well as of the party.

He will go into the congressional convention with the votes of Calhoun and Cleburne counties solid for him. Those two counties of the new fourth district compose the State Senatorial district which Mr. Grant has represented in the General Assembly so often.

The people of this county having no local candidate to present to the convention will consider the claims of those of other counties, and in an examination of records that of Hon. L. W. Grant, will stand out well to his advantage. He can afford to leave his claims in the hands of the true blue Democracy of the district.—Chilton County View.

Recently the editor of the REPUBLICAN was invited by the Alexandria Alliance to meet Dr. Groce at Alexandria and discuss with him the Ocala demands. He accepted the invitation and both speakers were accorded a most respectful hearing, and the discussion was in good temper and, we trust, fruitful of good. A correspondent of the Alliance Herald writing of it deals very fairly by both speakers. Evidently he is himself a believer in the Ocala demands, but he is broad enough to accord honesty of purpose and adherence to conscientious conviction to an opponent. Such a spirit is so rare in these days of bitterness and estrangement among Democrats that we reproduce it and commend its spirit to other Alliance men who are disposed to ascribe wrong motives, and a hostile spirit to all who oppose the Ocala demands. He says:

Mr. Grant took up the opposition with all the force of eloquence and impression he could command. He is a good speaker and if he would espouse one side of the question he would have such a grand and noble foundation to build from, his speech would be effective even in a plutocratic region. Though he has taken the opposition, we accord to him as being a lighted gentleman and being conscientious in his political convictions. He was an unflinching and gallant confederate soldier in the war between the states, and has been equally as good a soldier since the war in the cause of the democracy.

The Alliance store has gone out of business in Jacksonville and moved to the country. It was owned and controlled by good men. We hope the firm will have good luck at this new location.

It looks as if we may have a war with Chili. It will take one hundred thousand men to make up the first invading army. We do not have so many as this the regular army, and there will be a chance for volunteers.

County Alliance.

The Talladega County Farmers' Alliance held its quarterly meeting at Childersburg last Wednesday, and we have been informed that the proceedings were very interesting and harmonious. Twenty-eight sub-alliances were represented. We also understand that Dr. B. W. Groce was endorsed as a candidate for Congress from the Fourth District. The next meeting of the County Alliance will be held at Eastaboga in April.—Mountain Home.

NO MORE MARKET REPORTS.

If Representative Alexander's Bill Becomes a Law.

WASHINGTON, January 15.—Representative Alexander, of North Carolina, introduced in the house a bill relating to "gambling in agricultural products." This gambling, according to the bill, is defined to be a contract to sell future delivery corn, wheat, oats, rye, barley, etc., the contractor or seller not being the owner or agent of the owner at the time of the making of the contract. The bill excludes from mails any letters, postal cards, or circulars, concerning gambling in agricultural products and checks, drafts, bills, money, postal notes, or money orders for use for such a purpose. It also excludes from the mails newspapers, circulars, pamphlets, or publications of any kind containing advertisements, telegraphic reports or other articles giving quotations of any market relating to gambling in agricultural products. A tax of $2 per word is levied on each interstate telegraph or telephone message used for or in aid of the gambling referred to in the act.

BAD LUCK AND HARD TIMES HIS TOPIC THIS WEEK.

The Proper Time to Hang up the Fiddle and the How—Some Examples of What there is in Luck and Pluck.

Written for the Sunday Enquirer-Sun.

New Year has come and gone and the next thing is something else. There is a right and proper time for everything, and the time for fiddling and dandling and frolicking is now about over till Christmas comes again. The past is past, and you can't churn butter from the milk that is spilt. My doctrine is that people ought to take things as they come live all they can while they are at it, but out in the country it will soon be a good time of year to hang up the fiddle and the bow, and trot out the shovel and the hoe.

HARD TIMES.

Money is a right smart different from men. It never gets tight till after Christmas. Hard times come mighty high every year right about when country folks are windin up the past and unwind for the future, when the good average farmer is rollin logs and fixin up fences and burnin brush and clearin up the briar patches, and you can catch the smell of fresh plowed dirt hither and yonder.

I ain't very much when it come to moanin and wallin about hard times till hard times come. I don't believe in crawlin and walkin when I can ride, and it is plenty time to burn down the bridge after you git across the creek.

Fifteen or sixteen years ago today Dunk Strickland swore off from gitin drunk for twelve months to come. He had been on a spree continually all the time since Christmas, and his good wife give it out that it was now his turn to quit. She was yonder the best man in the family, and nobody didn't know the facts any better than Dunk Strickland did. So she got out the family Bible and made Dunk come to his knees and swear by all that was high and holy that he wouldn't git drunk any more till the next New Year followin. And Dunk kept his oath. He didn't git drunk any more that year. He jest simply stayed on the same old drunk the whole year through.

Hard times ain't comin this year. They have already come. If a farmer aint got plenty of corn in his crib and meat in his smoke house, and other farm productions of his own raising, it will take tall hushtin and a heap of it to pull him out of the woods. Like me, he may have to go out and kill a pig and eat the head and the tail in order to make both ends meet.

A VICTIM OF THE WAR.

Old Asberry Pickens (and he was a full brother to Uncle Tommy Pickens, Will Tom's daddy) got knocked out the easiest and quickest by a little hard times of any man in all of my acquaintances. He set a bad example to follow, and a good one to break away from.

Before the war old Asberry had a big plantation and it well stocked and in good fix, down on Panther Creek. He also had mules and niggers, and niggers and mules till he couldn't count them. He wore fine clothes and drunk good whiskey and used the best tobacco, and rode a fat horse with a screakin saddle. He wouldn't put his foot into a pair of boots that cost less than ten dollars, and he maintained continually that the world couldn't turn out any goods that was too fine to go on his back. He went in very deep on good clothes and fine style and family standing. When he went to a town or a church in his carriage his driver had the management of the team, and if the horses didn't have their heads pulled away up and a patent leather shine on their hair a nigger skin was more than likely to be tanned at the Pickens quarter that night.

But the war killed old Asberry Pickens along with hundreds and thousands of other good and useful men. It didn't git him in the thick of the fight, but it got him all the same at last. He hired another man for $1,500 to tote his musket and answer the roll when his name was called. And yet it looks like war had marked him for her own. It was maybe six months after the boys furlin their flags and grounded their arms at Appomattox before he died, but it stood jam up to reason with everybody that the war killed him. It killed him with bad luck and hard times.

From that fine spring morning when old Asberry woke up and found his gin-house burned and his corn-crib sacked and his niggers free and his mules gone, he was a changed man. He was as different from himself as if he was somebody else entirely. It seems like he lost all interest in the game after that, and he played his hand out fast and quick. He walked over his plantation [one of his niggers had rode off on his saddle horse], and when he got back to the house he had the general appearance of a man that had come to stay. He pulled a big chair up to one corner of the fireplace, and then took a seat and sat down to die.

From that time on he never stirred a stump nor moved a peg. Day in and day out he stuck to his corner like a hungry kitten to a pan of milk. He wouldn't do nothin but talk about bad luck and hard times and cuss the Yankee army and the "dam free niggers." His folks thought he might wear it off by and by and recover, but he held to it that he was a gone goshin, and he was.

THE GAME WAS UP.

Most everybody was down in the mouth about that time, but Asberry Pickens had the worst case of it in all this country. He had got his mind made up that it was the last load of poles for him and he wouldn't budge a blame bit.

Things got worse and worse over at the Pickens place, and the neighbors would drop in to talk with old Asberry and try to cheer him up and git him to face the music like a man. They told him he want half as poor and hard run as lots of people. He had his lands and a few scattering head of cattle left and could soon pull up the hill and get his head above water if he wanted. He had plenty of sense and was a good manager, and nothing could keep him down if he wanted to climb up. But it was like singing songs to a dead mule to talk in that way to Asberry Pickens.

"I have seen the day when I could go and come as many times as the next man, but the game is up with me now. I can't see any daylight ahead of me, and it aint no use tryin. I am down flat of my back, and nothin can pull me up and give me a new start in the world. My niggers are free and my mules all gone, and no rations enough on the place to run us through till fall. No, my time is nearly out and my race will soon be run to a finish. My luck has changed and the game runs from me like a shot. The war found Asberry Pickens in the prime of life, and flush with lands and niggers and mules. It has left me a poor and helpless old man. Let him play his hand out now swift and easy, and then pass in his chips and jump the game."

So the neighbors had to give it up and let the old man have his own way. He stuck to his corner close and steady and never was known to leave his house any more till they carried him out feet foremost in the mild and mellow autumn.

A DIFFERENT GAME.

But Hiram Callins played his game different and more in keeping with my notions of what was right. He fought from the first Manassas all the way through the whole entire war. He got wounded three or four times, and come home with the camp fever. His wife had took sick and died the year before and the enemy had then come along and burnt down his home and sifted the ashes. He didn't have a change of clothes to his name, nor even a shelter to sleep under.

What did he do? Nothin in particular the first year. He was too sick and starved out and weak, and it was too late to pitch a crop. He had a mighty good chance to die, and a heap better excuse to play out and let down, and give up and quit than Asberry Pickens did. He took up the situation and turned it round and round and over and over till he found a bright side to look at, and then waited for better luck. The next year he leased the Pickens plantation for five years, pulled off his coat and spit in his hands and went to work building up the waste places. In three years he had stocked the plantation and married Asberry's widow and started a second crop of Callinses. The last time I was down to the Panther Creek range I spent a night with Hiram and his folks, and if I didn't know it in person I never would of thought they had went through the rubs of bad luck and hard times after the war.

Hard times never did kill a man till he loses his nerve and shows his hand and makes up his mind to keel over and go dead.

NEW YEAR RESOLVES.

If it aint too late in the season maybe you would like to go snooks with me in some New Year resolves that I made on the first, and which the same was as follows:

1—Resolved that I will do less cussin and kickin and more workin and thinkin.

2—that I will keep politics out of my religion, and religion out of my politics, and vote for mother and the baby.

3—that I will make a little more than I spend or break a few traces and let the breechin down a tryin.

4—that I will give all the road to the man with a new plan to run the Government and save the country.

5—that I will plant more corn and less cotton one year if it costs the United States another war.

6—that I will work a right smart and sleep plenty and eat a whole passle.

7—that I will put my trust in the good Lord and keep my liver movin, and stay young and be happy.

8—that I will never drink another drop of man whiskey as long as I live. Hence-forwards from now on I must have good whiskey or none.

9—that I will pay my honest debts and not make any new ones, and go on tootin my own horn the best I can.

10—that in religion or politics I will show my hand every time I git called. I am too big and fat to ride the top rail this year.

11—that if I never die till hard times kill me I will live a long time.

COMMITTED TO ECONOMY.

Mr. Holman's Retrenchment Resolutions Passed.

WASHINGTON, January 15.—In the house the unfinished business of yesterday, being a motion to reconsider the vote by which the previous question was ordered on Mr. Holman's resolution, was taken up.

Mr. Holman withdrew his motion to reconsider, saying he had come to the conclusion that the second resolution was broad enough to cover any and all proper legal appropriations. It would include all such legislation as private pension bills and the like. Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, inquired whether a separate vote could be had on each resolution, and, on receiving an affirmative reply, demanded a division of the question.

This demand, after consultation with Mr. Dingley, of Maine, he withdrew; but it was immediately repeated by Mr. Tracey, of New York. So the question was taken on the first resolution, which reads as follows:

Resolved, That, in the judgment of this house, the granting of subsidies or bounties by congress in money, public lands, bonds, or by endorsement, or by pledge of public credit to promote special private industries or enterprises of corporations, independent of the question of the constitutional power of congress to make such grants, is unjust and impolitic, and in manifest conflict with the spirit of our republican institutions, as it directly tends to create and foster the wealth of favored classes at the expense of the whole people who bear the burdens of government and manifestly furnish undue facilities for the enlargement of great private estates—a policy which the government of the people cannot justly or safely encourage by any form of favoritism in legislation.

It was adopted—yeas, 229, nays, 40.

The question was then taken on the second resolution, Mr. Lynch, of Wisconsin, making a vain effort to present a substitute. The resolution is as follows:

Resolved, In view of the present condition of the treasury, and because an efficient and honest government can only be assured by the frugal expenditure of public money, while unnecessary and lavish expenditures, under any and all conditions, lead inevitably to venal and corrupt methods in public affairs, no money ought to be appropriated by congress from the public treasury except such as is manifestly necessary to carry on the several departments frugally, efficiently and honestly administered.

The resolution was agreed to—yeas, 164, nays, 93.

Chilians Getting Ready For War.

ATLANTA, Jan. 19.—The Constitution has just received a special from Washington saying the Chilians had fired on the Yorktown. To leave tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Captain Evans has reported to the department that four of the best cruisers in the Chilean navy will leave Valparaiso tomorrow for the straits of Magellan with a torpedo boat.

A captain of one of the English ships of war in those waters said that the Chilean commander informed him that the fleet was "going on special missions." "You may be astonished before long," he said.

This news is interpreted to mean that Rear Admiral Walker's fleet may be halted there and directed to turn back or risk a fight.

This is the most serious indication of Chili's hostile intentions the navy department has received.

Naval officers say that it can only mean one thing—that Chili intends opening the ball herself.

ARE YOU ONE OF US!

It seems almost like throwing the money away to pay tailors, $40.00 and $50.00 for what you can get of us for $25.00 or $35. They rail and rant against ready made clothes—but it's the pricking of the consciousness of excellence. We've gone in to win the trade of a class of gentlemen who are particular—but who are ready to give merit its dues. Have a look at our line of fine SUITS and OVERCOATS. If you've looked the best tailor's stock over you have seen the same grade of goods—with a third more at least, "tacked on" to the cost. The cheap tailors and the rest of the ready made clothiers haven't a suggestion of them even. Our's are in all the genteel effects. Effects that you don't find outside of a dozen mills if you look the world over for them. We put these fine fabrics right into OUR OWN TAILOR SHOPS and when they come out there's nothing choicer to be had. We are willing to stake our reputation on the perfection of the fit, the elegance and thoroughness of the finish and make. Try them on; It won't cost anything but time; and we are sure you'll give us the endorsement we deserve. We never go "off half cooked." When we make a claim we plant it in rich soil of facts, and it don't take long for it to bring forth fruit. Our efforts are telling on our trade. It's growing amazingly.

Such is our Success!

SATURDAY, JANUARY 30, 1892.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

The Democratic State Executive Committee, which met in Montgomery the 27th inst., fixed the date of the State Convention for the 8th day of June at Montgomery. The basis of representation remains unchanged, being one delegate for each 300 votes cast for the Democratic candidate for Governor at the last election and one additional delegate for each fraction of one hundred and fifty or over. On this basis Calhoun will have eight delegates. On the same basis Calhoun has cast as high as twenty-one votes in the State Convention. The falling off results from a failure of Democrats to go to the polls and vote for the Democratic nominee; and the lesson should be heeded. With a population of over 33,000, Calhoun can cast over six thousand five hundred votes. It is safe to say that of these fully five thousand are Democrats. It will be seen that if we had voted the full Democratic strength of the county at the last election Calhoun would have in the coming State Convention seventeen delegates instead of eight. In future the party will have to do its duty and vote, if it expects to have that importance in State councils that its strength in the county entitles it to. By authority of the last State Convention the committee lays down rules for the government of county conventions and primaries, intended to prevent contests in the coming State Convention. Among these regulations are the following:

Where county conventions are held, delegates to the State Convention shall be elected by a majority of delegates, and in primary elections the delegates receiving the highest number of votes shall be delegates. County Executive Committees in calling conventions shall be required to define the qualification of voters, in primary elections and beat meetings. To entitle one to participate in Democratic primaries or beat meetings the voter must have supported the nominees of the party both in the last State and National election, or failing to vote at said elections, can show that they have habitually voted the Democratic ticket, and who is in accord with and intends to support the nominees of the party.

No county convention, primary election or beat meetings to elect delegates to the State Convention shall be held without giving at least thirty days notice of the time. This does not apply to conventions or primaries already called in some of the counties.

In counties in which conventions are held to select delegates to the State Convention, the representation from each beat shall be in proportion to its Democratic strength.

There was a difference of opinion upon these various resolutions in the Committee, but they were all carried by a large majority. Messrs. Tallaferrro, Altman, Clayton, Wilson, Rogmore, McClellan, McQueen and Skaggs filed a protest to the rules laid down, except as to that one fixing the qualifications of voters in the beat meetings or primaries. They all seem to be agreed that men who voted against the Democratic nominees in the last State and Congressional elections should be excluded from participation in the coming councils of the party.

We again call upon the press of the State to impress upon the merchants the folly of the policy of closing out the small farmers to whom they can make no further advances and the wisdom of leaving them their stock and provisions with which to make another crop. The merchants are as much responsible for the all cotton system which has brought the farmers to distress as the farmers are, and they should divide the burden with them now. The wealth of a country reproduces itself every year. If the merchants will only refuse to utterly close out the farmers, they will, even without advances, make another crop and pay their debts. It is folly, supreme folly for the merchants to cripple their debtors so as they cannot produce stuff wherewith to pay next year.

Anniston is to have a great cotton mill. Mr. A. L. Tyler Anniston's public-spirited capitalist headed the bonus for it with a thousand dollar subscription. His son has lately put a large sum of money in one of the foremost mercantile enterprises of the City. It is evident that the Tylers are going to stand by Anniston and see her through the depression now prevalent everywhere. Anniston is largely the creation of Mr. Tyler and he takes pardonable pride in the City, and his active help at this time means much to it. His generous action will go far to inspire public confidence in the future growth of the town and is no doubt highly appreciated by its citizens.

B. W. Wren, General Passenger and Ticket Agent of the E. T., Va. & Ga. R. R., is an artist in the advertisement of his road. Recently we noted the reception of a beautiful publication from him descriptive of points along the lines of his system of roads, and now we have a New Year's card from the same source which is both beautiful and useful. The E. T., Va. & Ga. R. R. is a great railroad and it is most efficiently officered.

We learn from commercial men who have traveled over this State and Georgia that most of the merchants have gone out of the advancing business and are closing out the farmers even to the last head of stock and corn on hand. We have shown that this is mistaken policy and are glad to note that merchants in this section are pursuing a different policy.

It has been given out by delegates who attended that the district Alliance Convention of this Congressional District, held at Talladega last week, refused to endorse any one for Congress, but left Alliance men of the District free to vote for any candidate they might individually prefer. This is sensible. There is no reason why lines should be drawn among Democrats should always be left free to vote for any Democratic candidate they may prefer. Anything else is undemocratic.

No organization can be preserved without discipline. The backbone of the State Executive Committee gives promise that hereafter no quarter will be shown deserters from the Democratic colors.

REPRESENTATIVE ALLIANCISM.

Their Political States—Only one Republican Alliance man in the House. Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 23.—A Washington special to the Constitution says: The Alliance members of Congress met last night in conference, and had a regular mock and parrot time of it. Indeed, it looked at one time as if there was going to be a general fist-and-skull set-to between some of the Democratic Alliance men and the Third party Alliance men.

Mr. Watson had made a speech in the conference in which he asked Mr. Moses if he thought that he (Watson) had violated the platform upon which he was elected, and his pledges to his people, by refusing to act with the Democratic party here.

Mr. Moses replied that he would answer him in the language of Senator Hill, of Georgia, that "no man had a right to accept a commission from one party and execute it in the interest of another."

The discussion went along for a moment or two, when Col. Tom Wain took the floor and said to Mr. Watson: "I want you to explain to me why you, over your own signature, in your letter to the third party papers in Georgia, charged myself and others with being traitors to the people and to the Alliance."

Mr. Watson replied that he had not used such an expression.

Mr. Wain then stated that while he had not used the exact word, he had used a similar expression that could but convey that idea.

Mr. Wain then said that it was well enough to let past matters drop, and that he would be on friendly terms with everybody.

Mr. Wain replied that he was perfectly willing to accept Mr. Watson's apology, provided Mr. Watson would make it in the same papers to which he had written his original charges.

This Mr. Watson refused to do, when Mr. Wain took the floor and shook his finger vigorously toward Mr. Watson and said:

"I am offended with you, sir, and I want you to understand that it will be better for you to attend to your own district, and not try to represent the ninth. If you ever write another thing reflecting upon me I will hold you personally responsible, and will demand personal satisfaction."

Colonel Livingston and several others interrupted by stating that the gentlemen were getting off from the subject under discussion, and insisted that the conference should discuss the matters for which it had been called, namely, financial legislation.

Mr. Alexander, of North Carolina, then introduced a resolution that in future meetings of the Alliance members of Congress there should be no partisan politics in the discussions.

Mr. Watson said Mr. Livingston was responsible for interjecting politics into the meeting, to which Colonel Livingston replied emphatically that his statement was not true, and went on to state that when the matter was first introduced by Mr. Simpson, they had charged that third party was the only party that really favored financial relief to the people, and that it was the letters from the Third party people behind the congressmen that were inclining them to do anything at all.

Colonel Livingston went on to state that he believed that the Democratic members of the House were unanimously of the opinion that financial relief was needed, and that a measure of relief would be passed through this Congress by the Democratic majority.

Mr. Watson then moved that the Alliance conference should cease, as it was evident that the Third party and the Democratic Alliance men could not agree without luging in their partisan opinions. Mr. Watson's motion, however, received but three votes, that of himself, Jerry Simpson and Otis, of Kansas. The other Alliance men present agreed that future conferences should be held, and so voted.

It seems that the third party element in Congress consists of but three members now: Mr. Watson, of Georgia; Jerry Simpson and Mr. Otis, of Kansas.

Senator Morgan's bill for devoting the public lands of Alabama to the cause of industrial education in this State, would confer an inestimable boon on the whole South. Great institutions would be established and shed a light everywhere.—Age-Herald.

CHICKAMAUGA'S BLOODY FIELD.

What Happened in the Woods Following the Battle—An Unwritten Page From the History of the Fight.

The regiment had just moved by the left flank into the woods, where the smoke hung so thick one could not see twenty feet away when the Confederates charged us. There was yelling and shouting and hurly-burly, and I didn't even know when I was hit, nor do I remember falling. It was perhaps ten minutes later, and the struggle laid there—was over, when I opened my eyes and found myself lying across a dead corporal. Just as I crawled off of him some one called:

"Wall, now, if that ain't a dead Yankee comin' back to life!"

A few feet to the left, just getting into position, with his back to a tree, was a Confederate who had been shot in the leg.

"What's yo' hit?" he asked as I looked at him.

"In the shoulder, I guess. It seems as if the whole arm were torn away." "Come over yers."

I crawled over to him. With his knife he herped up his pants leg, and then he bound a handkerchief over his wound. When he had finished he cut away my blouse around the shoulder, examined the wound as well as he could and kindly remarked:

"That ar' will take you to the hospital for a month or so, and then git you a sixty-day furlough. Purty though sommat, wasn't it?"

"Which side won?"

"We uns, of co'se. You uns was driv out in no time. It's a powerful battle goin' on yere. Rocken ever'y man is shootin' as fast as he kin. Lemme help yo' with that canteen. Water's purty warm, but it's wet. I'll take a leetle myself. Listen to that yellin'."

"I'm jist a leetle bit afraid General Bragg is gwine to skeer General Rosecrans out his butes." "I am sure we shall win this battle."

Shoo! You uns gwine to be whipped all to smash afore night. Hear that! That's our boys gittin' right along. Lay down thar and I'll keep yo' posted as fur as I kin. Reckon this leg feels better when I sit up."

Had either of us know where to go we might hobbled off; but there was no telling which was the front or rear of that fight, and bullets were singing about like bees.

"Now, Yankee," said the man after a moment, "that's powerful firing over thar. That's yo' uns trying to hold a position, but we uns is gwine to git it away."

"I hope not."

"Got to, yo' know. Thar' goes more cannon on the left. Reckon yo' uns has bin bringin' up mo' guns. No good, though."

"There's more cheering."

"Yes, and that's Yankee yellin'! We uns got driv back down thar; but it won't last long. Uncle Robert sent General Longstreet clear down yere from Varginny, and we uns have got to win. Good deal o' lead bein' wasted around yere."

"What's that?" I asked, as there came a terrible crash of musketry on Sheridan's front.

"It's jist our battle line breakin' cover down thar. Yo' uns was waitin' to get in a dose, but I reckon it hain't hurt much."

"Which side is cheering now?" I asked, as a great shouting could be heard above the roar of the guns.

"We uns, of co'se. Told yo' 'twasn't much of a dose. Boys jest waitin' right thar. Got to do it, yo' know. Shoulder feel any wuss?"

"Good deal of pain."

"Thar's natural, but yo' keep quiet. Who! But haint yo' havin' it hot down thar! Must be hot bar's o' lead flyin' around loose!"

"There's more cheering. Which side does that come from?"

He made no reply.

"Who is cheering now?"

He was still silent. I turned over until I could see his face. He sat there dead. A bullet had struck him fair in the forehead, and death had come so quickly that he still sat erect, and his lips were parted as if to answer my question.—New York World.

A LANDMARK GONE.

Death of Ephraim D. Allen last night.

Mr. Ephraim D. Allen died last night at the residence of his son J. Baxter Allen, in South Anniston, last night.

The infirmities of age was the cause of Mr. Allen's demise, he being over seventy years old.

Mr. Allen was one of the pioneers of this section and for many years owned the fine farm upon which Oxanna now stands.

Mr. Allen was one of the promoters of the Oxford and Anniston street railway, which became the foundation for the present electric line. He was always a progressive man and by his business sagacity and frugality, amassed a handsome competency.—Anniston Even News.

We are not sufficiently posted on the status of affairs in Butler county to know whether the early date set for the convention is in the nature of a Kolb coup d'etat or not. In the last State convention that county went solidly for Captain Kolb, and we presume the committee were favorable to his cause. Butler is very near to Montgomery, and the Governor has a week to work in. Our information is that Butler can be won by the Governor in less than a week, if, indeed, it is not already that way.—Age-Herald.

The gripe has spread with such rapidity in Paris that all the hospitals are crowded with patients. Barracks in the outskirts of the city are to be turned into infirmaries.

CONVENTION CALLED.

National Democratic Committee Gives Due Notice to the Party.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The National Democratic Committee today issued this call:

The National Democratic Committee, at a meeting held this day at the city of Washington, D. C., has appointed Tuesday, June 21, 1892, as the time, and chosen the city of Chicago as the place, for holding the National Democratic Convention. Each State is entitled to representation therein equal to double the number of representation to which it is entitled in the next Electoral College, and each territory and the District of Columbia shall have two delegates. All Democratic, conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for a pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

BANKING BILLS.

Alabama Congressman Advocates Measures Proposed by Him.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The House Committee on Banking and Currency listened for over an hour today to an argument by Representative Oates, of Alabama, in support of the bills introduced in the House by him and referred to the Committee. One of these bills makes it lawful for any national banking association to loan money upon real estate secured by mortgage to an amount not exceeding 50 per cent. of the cash value of the property.

The other bill in favor of which Mr. Oates argued was one repealing the tax of 10 per cent. on the circulation of State banking associations; provided there is furnished as security for the redemption of such bills 75 per cent. of solvent bonds of the State and 25 per cent. cash. Mr. Oates' principal purpose was to show that Congress had the power to enact the legislation proposed in the bill.

Peffer and the Constitution.

The long whiskered United States Senator from Kansas has met with a serious shock at the very beginning of his career in Washington. Mr. Peffer has always had an idea that he knew all there was worth knowing about legislation for the benefit of the people. Almost his first action in the Senate was to introduce a bill to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to loan to the farmers of Indiana $100,000,000 on approved first mortgages. The bill was promptly referred to the Committee on Agriculture, which has just decided that it has no authority and that the Senate had no authority in the matter, and has returned the bill to the Senate with such a report. Unless Senator Peffer hires a constitutional lawyer to scrutinize and pass upon bills that he may prepare on similar lines for introduction into the Senate he will find himself the laughing stock of the country.—Anniston News.

Colonel Robert McKee.

It was common rumor in this part of the State that the "Warwick" letters published in The Alliance Herald in the interest of Mr. Kolb, were written by Colonel Robert McKee, of the Piedmont Inquirer. Never hearing the rumor contradicted, and accepting it as a fact, The Register some days ago expressed in vigorous terms its resentment at the assaults made by "Warwick" upon this paper, and assuming that Colonel McKee was the author we incidentally referred jestingly to his long service as private secretary to various governors. Since then we have been reliably informed that Colonel McKee is not the author of the "Warwick" letters, and hence we hasten, without any suggestion from him or any one else, to express our deep regret at the error into which we unwittingly fell, and to make all the apologies that one honorable man can make to another. We have always admired the personal bearing, high sense of courtesy and literary ability of Colonel McKee, and for this reason we regret more deeply if we have indicted pain upon one whose life has been so gentle and beyond reproach.—Mobile Register.

Two Wrongs.

But we do have an admiration and respect for every man who fought the battles of his country. Whatever may be the vagaries and follies of Colonel Hodgson as editor of The Mobile Register, the evidence is overwhelming and unimpeachable that he made a brave and faithful confederate officer. The testimony of men like General Allen, General Wheeler and Judge Randolph, are absolutely conclusive on that score. But a soldier's good name is dearer than that even, and it is doubly wrong to attack him with charges that are so overwhelmingly disproven. One wrong never justifies another, and two wrongs cannot make a right.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Faithfully Stabbed in the Back.

ANNISTON, ALA., Jan. 24.—In a fight on Cider Row last night between negroes Frank Hunt was fatally stabbed in the abdomen and shoulder by Jack Smith. The fight occurred at Smith's home, where Hunt was found in a position that did not suit the other's idea of propriety. Hunt, died this morning, and his slayer is in jail.

Texas Planters Disgusted.

DALLAS, TEXAS, January 25.—At least 80 per cent. of the cotton crop has been marketed and it is thought that not more than ten per cent. remains at the gin houses. The planters have lost heavily upon it and are disgusted with the situation and the outlook. They loudly protest that they won't plant more than half what they did last year. The price now obtained is two cents below the actual cost of production per pound.

New Cotton Mill for Anniston.

ANNISTON, ALA., Jan. 23.—A new cotton mill for Anniston is an assured fact. The committee having the local subscription in charge raised the amount today demanded by the Boston company who will build the mill, and work will doubtless commence in a short time. The mill will cost $300,000 and will contain 20,000 spindles.

In Louisiana the two factions of the Democratic party have to confront the fact of a strong Republican ticket, the personnel of which appeals to the people as no other Republican ticket nominated in that State has ever done. Is there not some, indeed, great, danger of this ticket carrying the electoral as well as local vote of the State and thus delivering one of the Southern States to the support of the National Republican party? It looks so to all thoughtful Democrats outside of Louisiana.—Memphis Commercial.

will be extended beyond the E. & W.
R. R. until it reaches the ore beds in beat 8, known as the Butler Green and Turner ore beds. These are colossal. The Tredegar Mineral has been built by Jacksonville people during the severe depression we have had in money matters, which shows the faith the people have in their town and their settled determination to build it up.

A flying visit to Piedmont Tuesday was good for the blues. We found things lively up there and everybody cheerful and sanguine of the future.
The depression has affected Piedmont less than any town we know of. Its growth goes on and its great industries are rapidly being put in working condition. The great cotton mill is being pushed and it is altogether likely that a new company will take hold of the furnace and complete and enlarge it. Good luck to the Piedmonters. They are the best of people and deserve success.

The death of Mr. G. W. Leach occurred in the absence of the editor and was not noted at the time. He died of debility caused by old age.
He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, being a communicant of the Church at this place. He was a man of great natural wit and sense and was widely and favorably known throughout the county. A genial and gentle spirit has gone from among us. Let us kindly treasure his memory.

The second copy of the Southern Household is on our table. This fine publication gotten out by Messrs
Cash & Wicks of Piedmont deserves a place at every fireside. It is cheap enough in price to be in reach of all.
It is rich enough in intellectual food to be interesting to all.

well and is highly satisfied.

A Hectoring Message.

The Chronicle says: "If Chilli's offer of satisfaction was sent under the circumstances as reported, President Harrison has been guilty of an act of most reprehensible 'spread eagleism.' He must have known before he published his hectoring message that Chilli had done all and more than was required; therefore his message was mere 'blare.' We confess we hesitate coming to a conclusion so utterly disgraceful, not only to Harrison, but to a great nation that have made him the trustee of their honor and interest. We cannot believe him capable of such a mean dodge, although we are not unmindful of the dirty trick his wire-pullers played on Lord Sackville West."

Hon. L. W. Grant was in the city yesterday, and leaves today for Cleburne. He expressed himself as very much gratified at his prospects for Congress. From the present outlook it now seems that Mr. Grant stands the best chance of any man in the field to represent the new Fourth in the next Congress.—Hot

PEACEBURG ITEMS.

PEACEBURG, Jan. 24.—State and county politics are freely talked here
now. At this early date it is hard to tell who will carry the day here so far as the county affairs are concerned, but it will be Jones for governor.

Quite a number of our citizens are suffering from attacks of the well known gripe.
The Livingston mill here is now cutting a large bill of lumber to be used in the buildings at the World's fair.

A great many oats will be sowed
if it will only stop raining for a week or so.

It is expected that the reorganization of the U. S. R. S. Co., will be completed by March 15th, at the latest. There is $500,000 working capital in the hands of New York ready to be put into the business as soon as the reorganization is perfected. Until that occurs, however, nothing much can be expected in the way of work.—Hot Blast.

The bad break made by the Alliance in Etowah is having its effect.
The endorsement in that county of a Republican will lead to a well merited and overwhelming defeat, and is a reflection on the entire order.
The result that in a number of counties
the Alliance is thinking better of it and drawing out of politics as a whole.
This is right.—Ape Herald.

That Jacksonville's fair daughters have taken in the Leap Year situation was beautifully and charmingly illustrated at the "Iron Queen" last Monday evening, by a Leap Year party which proved to be quite a recherche affair.

For a week or ten days pending the evening of this happy occurrence the all-absorbing theme of the average Jacksonville citizen was "the Leap Year Party."

At 7:30 o'clock on the appointed evening a person, standing on the curbstone on Main street in front of the "Iron Queen," could see couples coming from all quarters.

When the gate was reached a fair form could be seen to untuck the gate and then when the task of ascending the steps was attempted the ladies very gracefully assisted their escorts.

At the entrance door a hand of the fair escort could be seen to vanish for a moment in the mystic folds of her dress and then it would return laden with the admission fee which she transferred to the door keeper, Mr.
Privett. (Right here naturally arises the question, why did they not have a lady for door keeper?) After this performance the parties entering were at liberty to enjoy the privileges of the evening.

The first thing to be done after the major part of the party had assembled, was for each young man to select a hat or bonnet, each young lady carried such an article in its crude form, and trim it for his escort in the best possible manner.

The scene of trimming the head-wear was a busy and an interesting one. With a needle two inches long, thread number 8, an open thumb on his first or little finger, the work went on as though it were an ideal millinery establishment.

Mr. Hurter became much attached to a bird (fresh from the hands of the taxidermist) when he commenced his work, and, although several entreated him to release it, he kept possession of it until the end. When he completed his task he exhibited a black touque, on the rear of which stood this lonely bird on one foot resembling much a stately stork posing for a likeness.

Flournoy Crook seemed better prepared for millinery work than any other participant, since he had a "sewing companion." He was too well prepared to be successful.

The old bachelors were out in bright array.

The girls were not alone in their glee for there were also mothers and even grand mothers who participated in the amusement.

After the hat-trimming the ladies tendered their sterner friends a most delightful surprise by inviting them into the spacious dining-room where three large tables were laden with dainty refreshments. After partaking of these delicacies the gay party returned to the hall where the judges awarded the prizes.

Miss Host Gasser, than whom there is no more popular host in the land, did all in his reach to make the evening a pleasant one for all present and well did he succeed.

Ye Editor was there supporting a smile which seemed to say "Oh!
what a striking contrast between this happy place and the quiet sanctum!"

Mr. James Crow refused to use any ribbon whatever on his hat, arguing that flowers were easier to put on and presented a more artistic appearance.

Mr. George Rowan, it is said devoted several hours in reading the latest fashion magazines and viewing the fashion plates which he termed "dazzling pictures." He learned that the latest was to trim all hats in front only. Behold, when his was complete it was trimmed on the rear end.

Mr. Bowling (poor man) pleaded earnestly for "just a yard of ribbon," but without avail. He, too, read a 3-column article about the latest fashions just before venturing out.

Miss Bessie Woodward, donned in her "royal covering" which took second prize, and which in point of artistic merit was without a rival, was a "queen of beauty"—a modern Circe.

Miss Martha Morton Bound to Go to Texas to marry in Ardent Lover Who Waits in the Lone Star State For Her.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., Jan. 24.—
Miss Martha Morton, a good-looking 16-year-old girl from Sauty Mills, DeKalb county, passed through the city this afternoon en route to Cocksville, Tex.; where she will marry Andrew Bynum, her lover, who became acquainted with her a year ago, and who has since been corresponding with her and sent her money with which to join him in the "Lone Star State."

The terrible story of a bloody tragedy is told in connection with Miss Morton's flight. She left her home last Friday, in opposition to the wishes of her father, James Morton, the postmaster at Sauty Mills, and stole through the country that night on horseback to the home of her brother-in-law, Bill Sloan, a notorious moonshiner. The old man learned of this and gave chase.

Saturday he reached Sloan's house and demanded to know the whereabouts of his daughter, who meanwhile had been hidden. A row occurred between Sloan and Morton, which resulted in Sloan shooting and killing his father-in-law. The girl then mounted a horse and rode fifteen miles to Fort Payne last night, where today she caught a Queen & Crescent train for Texas. She said that despite the tragic death of her father she was bound to marry her Texas lover. Sloan the murderer, made good his escape.

Boy Dies in Horrible Agony After Three

ANNISTON, ALA., Jan. 24.—James Kilgore, a 14-year-old boy, died on Glen Adie street this morning of a broken spine, after three days of indiscribable agony.

He was swinging Thursday, when at a height of several feet the rope broke, throwing the little boy to the ground, where his back struck a root.
His spine was broken by the fall and his sufferings were terrible until death relieved them.

The Way to Circulate More Money.

Selma Times.

It should be remembered that two great points are secured to the South by the production of home supplies.
The money paid as wages to raise such supplies remains here in our own midst to add to the general prosperity of the country, and the farmer secures his supplies for much less than where he buys them.

When these supplies are purchased from elsewhere they not only cost the farmer three times as much as home raised supplies, but the money that goes away for them is an enormous drain on the resources of our section, the only portion that is left behind being the small profit retained by the wholesale merchant in handling the goods?

If the farmers of the South want to have more money in circulation in their midst they can secure this much desired state of affairs very quickly by a perfectly natural and business like way without attempting any of the artificial and injurious methods suggested by the Ocala platform, or by starting the government press to work to print more money. If the farmers of the South for two years will stop their enormous outflow of money from this section which goes away annually for supplies of all sorts that can be more profitably raised here, then we will have money in abundance in circulation. Just think of the millions the cotton growing section of the South sends out its borders every year; every cent of which ought to be retained here. How can we expect money to be plentiful, and to circulate freely, when we send all that we make away to pay for goods that ought to be made here. This is a homely way and an oft told story of expressing the "something better" that we need, but it is high time fellow farmers that we were reflecting seriously on this important matter.
